

Sometimes if you are in need of prompt medical attention, the Emergency Room (ER) isn't the best place to go.

Immediate care centers are walk-in clinics designed to treat minor (non-life threatening) injuries and illnesses right away. You don't need an appointment, and many times, an immediate care center can treat you faster than an ER. Additionally, immediate care centers offer many of the same services as an ER, such as X-Ray and blood testing, and many have extended daily or weekend hours for your convenience.

The Sherman Immediate Care Centers are your best alternative when your physician isn't available.

Use the Sherman Immediate Care Centers as an alternative to visiting the Emergency Room for these services:

- Fever, vomiting, diarrhea, colds
- Minor burns and cuts
- Infections/rashes
- Fractures
- Strains
- General wounds

You should go to an ER if you experience any of the following symptoms or need immediate medical attention: inability to breathe, chest pain, seizures, extensive wounds and/or bleeding, loss of consciousness, poisoning or severe burns.
